THURSDAY, JUNE 4

8:30 am - 10:00 am

Session 1

Community Forests in a Changing Sector: Growth, Governance and Accountability

As interest in community forestry grows, so does the complexity of how to expand the program.

This session will provide context on provincial strategic direction and examine how the Community Forest Program can expand in a way that is grounded in current government priorities, sector realities, and strengthened accountability expectations. It will support a shared understanding of evolving policy and explore how to move the program forward with clarity and confidence.

Moderator - Randy Spyksma, RPF, President, BCCFA and Manager, Logan Lake Community Forest

Panel

- Patrick Russell, RPF, Director, Tenures, Compensation & Business Analysis Branch, Ministry of Forests
- Amanda Fouty, RPF, A/Director, Timber Pricing Branch, Ministry of Forests
- Jennifer Gunter, Executive Director, BCCFA

10:00 am - 10:30 am

Break

10:30 am - 12:00 pm

Session 2

Stewardship and the Long Game: Rethinking AAC and Timber Supply

This session shifts the focus from timber targets to informed decision-making that reflects the full range of values managed within community forests. As fibre becomes more constrained, AAC is increasingly understood as an outcome of good data, shared understanding, and integrated planning—not a target.

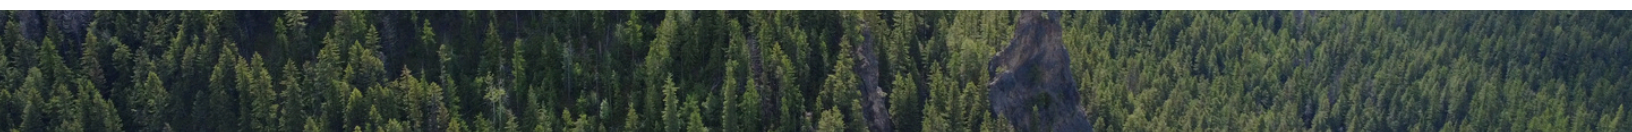

Hear how community forests are reassessing timber availability, managing for long-term values like water, access, fuels management, and resilience, and adapting to real-world constraints.

Participants will explore implications for budgets and local economies, and gain practical insights from managers using both Western science and First Nations knowledge systems.

Moderator – Casey Macaulay, RPF, Manager, Wells Gray Community Forest

Panel

- Coulter Roberts, RPF, Planning Supervisor, Westbank First Nation Community Forest, Ntityix Resources
- Erik Holbek, RPF, Barkley Community Forest
- Albert Nussbaum, Deputy Chief Forester, Office of the Chief Forester
- Hugh Scolah, PhD, Advisor, Economic Strategy and Community Development
